

WHAT'S YOUR CREATIVE STYLE?

YOUR CREATIVE INSTINCTS

What's the last quilt you made that felt truly "you"? What made it special?

When you choose fabrics for a quilt, what drives your decision—color, texture, pattern, or something else?

Do you follow patterns exactly, or do you tend to modify them? How do you make them your own?

What quilting techniques or styles excite you the most? Why?

WHAT'S YOUR CREATIVE STYLE?

YOUR CREATIVE PROCESS

Think about a quilt you're especially proud of. What creative choices did you make in the process?

How do you handle challenges in quilting (like running out of fabric, mistakes, or design dilemmas)? Have you ever turned a mistake into something beautiful?

Do you plan everything before you start quilting, or do you let inspiration guide you along the way?

How do you decide when a quilt is "done"? Do you rely on instinct, feedback, or something else?

WHAT'S YOUR CREATIVE STYLE?

YOUR UNIQUE STYLE

If someone saw a quilt you made without knowing it was yours, what might make them recognize it as your work?

What kinds of colors, patterns, or motifs do you return to again and again?

Do you find inspiration outside of quilting—art, nature, history, emotions? How does that show up in your work?

What's one thing about your quilting style that makes it uniquely yours?

WHAT'S YOUR CREATIVE STYLE?

EMBRACING YOUR CREATIVITY

What's one way quilting allows you to express yourself?

Have you ever tried a quilting technique that felt risky or outside your comfort zone? What happened?

If you could give another quilter advice on embracing their creativity, what would it be?

Looking ahead, how would you like to push your creativity further in your next project?
